What To Eat Where To Get It How To Cook It

The Home Kitchen

SAVORY RECIPES FROM SIX NATIONS

Every nation has its favorite dishes, and tourists, while they eat and enjoy them, seldom think of asking how they are made, which is a blow to the stay-at-homes, who, hearing of these excellent dishes, would love to try some of them. Here are a few foreign recipes for the card index. They are really worth trying, and all of the ingredients may be purchased here in America.

A Spanish Soup.

Mince fine a cupful of blanched almonds, a small onion and three stalks of celery, add a cupful and a half of cold water, and cook slowly until all is soft, then rub through a sieve. Stir in a pint each of milk and well-skimmed chicken broth, and when hot pour over these ingredients the beaten yolk of an egg, adding salt and pepper. Reheat the soup in a double boiler and serve with a tablespoonful of whipped cream on each portion.

Scottish Cook-a-Leekie.

Clean and joint a tender fowl and boil it until it is tender, adding the usual soup greens for flavoring. When done, remove the fowl and strain the soup, then return the soup to the kettle with two bunches of washed leeks cut in inch pieces and four tablespoonfuls of rice, and boil it gently for one-half hour. Remove half the chicken from the bones, cut it fine and add it to the soup. Add also a little chopped parsley and more seasoning if needed.

Hindu Eggs.

Boil six eggs hard, and when cold remove the shells and slice the eggs. Arrange the slices on a buttered pudding-dish, dusting them with pepper, salt and a teaspoonful of curry powder. Beat two eggs well and add salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a tablespoonful of cream and two tablespoonfuls of butter, beat well and pour the mixture into the pudding-dish. Sprinkle the top with crumbs and bake in a moderate oven a delicate brown.

Swiss Brussels Sprouts.

Trim a basketful of fresh Brussels sprouts and boil them rapidly until tender, drain and add to them a cupful of stock and two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper. Cook gently for a few minutes, then add a pound of boiled chestnuts halved and a half-cupful of cream. Serve at once.

French Carrots.

Wash, scrape and soak for five minutes two bunches of young carrots, drain and cut them into match-like sticks. Stew the carrot sticks in a half-cupful of cream until they take up the cream and the pieces begin to brown, add another half-cupful of cream, season, cook until the carrots are thoroughly tender, then serve.

Japanese Chicken.

Cut a tender chicken in small pieces and lay them in a deep pot with a cupful carrot, potato and parsnip. Just cover with boiling water and add enough Japanese soy sauce to flavor, and a teaspoonful of sugar. Cover these ingredients and let them simmer from time to time. Serve the chicken with boiled rice. A gravy may be made of the liquid in which the chicken was cooked.

Uncle Wiggly

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE THORN BUSH.

"Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggly! Wait a minute!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as the bunny rabbit gentleman hopped down the steps of his hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Eh? What's that? Some one at the telephone?" asked Uncle Wiggly, turning his ear toward his muskrat lady housekeeper and with the other listening for the telephone bell.

But no bell was ringing, and Nurse Jane said: "It isn't the telephone, Uncle Wiggly. I just wanted you to wait a moment before you go adventuring. I want to ask you to bring me back a pound of sugar."

"I'll do that!" promised the bunny rabbit and then with a twinkle of his pink nose, for he was feeling very jolly that morning, away he hopped over the fields and through the woods.

Uncle Wiggly had not gone very far before he heard some childish voices calling:

"Pull him this way!"

"No, pull him out the other way!"

"Don't pull him! Push him in what we ought to do!"

"Don't push and don't pull! You're tearing me to pieces! Stop!"

This last cry was louder than any of the others.

"Goodness me, sakes alive and some apple butter ice cream!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggly. "Those are some of the animal boys and girls, I'm sure. But whatever has happened?"

Uncle Wiggly hopped nearer to some bushes, from behind which the excited cries seemed to come, and there the bunny saw a strange sight.

Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, and Jackie and Peetle Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, were pulling at Floppy Twistytail, the little pig. Floppy was half hidden beneath a bush, and he was making as much noise as two little pigs caught under a gate.

"Pull him out!" barked Jackie Bow Wow.

"Push him out!" chattered Johnnie the squirrel.

"Let me alone!" squealed the pig-like chap. "You're filling me full of stickers. Ouchie-ouchie!"

"Here! Here! What's the matter?" cried Uncle Wiggly, as he hopped toward the bush.

"Floppy crawled under the thorn bush to get the ball that rolled there when we were having a catch," explained Jackie.

"And now he can't get out," added Peetle.

"We're trying to pull him out," said Johnnie.

"And I think maybe we'd better push him instead of pulling," said Billie, the other squirrel boy.

"Don't do anything!" squealed Floppy. "This is a thorn bush and the thorns are sticking in me from all sides. If you pull me or push me they'll stick me all the worse. Help me out, Uncle Wiggly!" begged the pig-like boy.

"We're trying to pull him out," said Johnnie.

"And I think maybe we'd better push him instead of pulling," said Billie, the other squirrel boy.

"Don't do anything!" squealed Floppy. "This is a thorn bush and the thorns are sticking in me from all sides. If you pull me or push me they'll stick me all the worse. Help me out, Uncle Wiggly!" begged the pig-like boy.

that when some one was under the bush they could neither be pulled or pushed out, backward or forward, without being caught on the thorns.

"There is only one way to get Floppy out," said Uncle Wiggly. "We must lift him straight up out of the middle of the bush. Then the thorns won't stick him. Straight up will do the trick."

They got a long pole, held it over the middle of the thorn bush and Floppy caught hold of it in his front paws. Then, all holding together, they lifted the pig-like boy out of the thorn bush without scratching him.

"Run along now," advised Uncle Wiggly, "and don't crawl under any more thorn bushes."

The animal boys thanked the bunny and went off to play ball again. Uncle Wiggly hopped to the store and got the pound of sugar in a bag.

As Uncle Wiggly was hopping home, near the thorn bush, all of a sudden, out at him jumped the Woolly Wolf.

"This time I'll have your ears!" howled the Wolf.

Uncle Wiggly threw something under the thorn bush. The Wolf saw him do this.

"What did you throw under the bush?" asked the Wolf.

"Oh, just a pound of sugar," answered Uncle Wiggly, careless like. "It was only a pound of sweet sugar."

"Only a pound of sugar," howled the Wolf. "The idea. Don't you know I just love sugar with nibbled ears?"

Now I've got to crawl under the bush and get that sugar. After that I'll nibble your ears."

Not knowing the bush had thorns on it, the Wolf crawled under. This he could easily do from that side, as all the thorns pointed in. He picked up the bag of sugar, but when he tried to crawl out again to nibble the bunny's ears, the thorns, now pointing out, caught in the shaggy fur of the Wolf and held him fast.

"Oh, help me out! Help me out!" howled the Wolf.

"Help you out to nibble my ears? Not much!" laughed Uncle Wiggly. "You are welcome to the sugar—"

Good Time Had By All, Says Woman Who Cared for Ill-Treated Stock

AKRON, O., Nov. 3.—"I took the goats walking every day, and they jumped and hopped with delight and climbed the trees for the fruit."

Thus Mrs. Anne Cherryholm sought to defend her landlord from charges of abusing and neglecting his livestock.

Elly Breitenstein, 64, was the defendant, owner of home, sheep and two goats. He was accused of not feeding them. The sheep had not been sheared for years, and their wool was full of ticks and lice.

Breitenstein was found guilty and will appeal the case.
